THRESHOLDS: An exhibition by the award-winning international sculptor Diane Maclean.

"The threshold is the place to pause."

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

This striking exhibition inviting us to pause at a series of thresholds continues at Chichester Cathedral until the end of September. Thresholds is a collection of five large-scale sculptures placed both inside and outside of the Cathedral, which incorporate light, reflection, colour and movement – inviting interaction with the viewer. The shape and form of the sculptures, one a series of open frames, another a bird's wing invite us to explore the potential for transformation, and making crossings in our own lives.

Diane's extraordinary sculptures include 'Circle of Light' in the North Transept, where visitors can enter a circle of steel columns and be bathed in a sanctuary of light. The Cathedral's 'Paradise' is host to the 'Road Untravelled', a slim river of gleaming stainless steel. Visitors are invited to follow a trail to explore these and three other unique pieces positioned both inside and outside of the Cathedral.
